Silent Night

The Silent Night

The Silent Night

A time as distant as the place

Night winds blowing warm

Stars with no street light competition

No faint highway drone - no sirens

We imagine silence, darkness

But we don't know

The inns were full

Had the laughter and hustle died down?

Were people still in the streets?

Were dogs barking?

Or was it late,

Silence to be sliced by a baby's cry

Darkness to be ripped by the brightest light

A time and place so distant

Yet as close as the person beside us

As human as birth

As tragic as loneliness

As mysterious as the stars

The light shone in the darkness and revealed love

God's love

In a baby's cry

Merry Christmas!
